

5 Ways To Get Your Boss to Give You A Vacation

1. Get real close to him (in his personal space) and whisper: "We must leave at once, the British are coming..."

2. On a Wednesday, come in to work happy and cheery asking everyone, "How was your weekend?"

3. At your next meeting, if you disagree with something, say "With all due respect sir, you straight up trippin, Yo!"

4. At your next meeting, set up a lemonade stand.

5. If someone tries to offer friendly advice--for example, if they tell you that you have something on your shirt-- become defensive and say:

"I don't point out all of your faults, but I can start..."